RE: Campus Report for the March 2022 Board of Regents' Meeting

- Montana Western Student Receives George M. Dennison Scholarship Award

Montana Campus Compact recently announced the recipients of the 2021-22 George M. Dennison Scholarship Award, including University of Montana Western student, Morgan Duncan.

According to Montana Campus Compact, "This year we received an exceptionally strong set of applications from our affiliated campuses across Montana. All our civically engaged college student applicants represent George M. Dennison's vision of building strong, equitable, and just communities through volunteerism, civic engagement, and service. Each student's application spoke to an impressive range of service activities to address unmet needs within their communities."

"While serving as the President of the Biology Club, I have learned how to be more confident and how to be a leader. I believe this has also allowed my peers to become more confident as they participate in the events that we host and come closer as a campus community," said Duncan.

- UMW Professor Estee Aiken Selected as MUS Teaching Scholar

The Office of the Commissioner of Higher Education recently announced that it has selected 11 faculty members and instructors to be honored as Montana University System Teaching Scholars, including Montana Western Professor of Education, Estee Aiken, Ed.D.

The MUS Teaching Scholars program recognizes faculty members who have made exemplary contributions to teaching and learning at their institutions and by supporting these faculty in leading peers in further advancing excellence in teaching. Scholars will receive a $1,500 award as well as a $500 stipend to design and facilitate a faculty learning community at their institution.

- Montana Western Alumna Excels in Montana's Mining Industry

Montana Western alumna, Lacey Morrison, graduated in May 2015 with a degree in Environmental Science with an option in Geology.

After graduation, Morrison returned to her hometown of White Sulphur Springs to work for Sandfire Resources on the Black Butte Copper Project. In 2016, Morrison was offered a position in Juneau, Alaska as an underground geologist for Coeur Mining Inc. where she gained valuable experience before returning to Black Butte Copper in 2017.

Today, Morrison holds the title of Senior Geologist and manages the diamond drill operation for the Black Butte Copper project and co-founded the Montana Chapter of the Women in Mining organization that educates the public on the importance of diversity and inclusion in the mining industry.

- UMW Professor Denise Holland Honored with Teacher of the Year Award

The Montana Association for Career and Technical Education recently announced that Denise Holland, Professor of Business at Montana Western, has been selected as the 2021 Montana Career and Technical Education Post-Secondary Teacher of the Year.

Holland, Ed.D, has taught at Montana Western since 2001. Before joining the UMW faculty, Holland taught public high school courses in business and marketing in Idaho and Montana and assisted elementary teachers in creating technology projects.

This award recognizes the finest career and technical education teachers at the postsecondary level who have demonstrated innovation in the classroom, commitment to their students and dedication to the improvement of CTE in their institutions and communities.
