

July 2025

Student Taylor Ferguson uses her University of Montana education to blend biology with ballet, choreographing an epic sandhill crane dance.

Can art save salmon? Ayla Kaltenecker already sells her conservation artwork online and is building her skills with a UM double-major in wildlife biology and media arts.

A UM dual-enrollment program puts Frenchtown High School graduates on the fast track to higher education.

Grizzly Esports just scored its first national champion video game team.

UM unveiled Grizzly Gate, a new landmark sign at the edge of campus.

Love for amphibians and wetlands powered UM's Hannah Hornyak to win a prestigious Udall Scholarship.

Recent UM graduate Carl Shaw turned his ranch work ethic into a successful direct-to-consumer beef company.

UM students and researchers are studying whether improved signage can reduce bear mortality in America's national parks.

The University recently released its scholarship lists for top incoming freshmen. Read more about the Presidential Leadership Scholars and Provost and Dean's Honors Scholars. The Max Baucus Institute also named its 2025 Baucus Leader Scholars.

Nearly 2,800 UM students made the spring 2025 Dean's List or President's 4.0 List. Additionally, more than 1,800 students graduated from UM this spring.

Graduate Abigail Miller has left behind a skiing legacy at UM.

The University earned an A+ grade for its elementary math teacher preparation.

UM senior Daazhrai Alexander created a science-fiction screenplay, "Tooth," that explores survival and identity.

The University recently partnered with Blackfoot Communications on a critical cybersecurity effort.

A new UM course allowed students to help stroke survivors at the intersection of human, wildlife and environmental health.

Recent UM graduate Taylor Sadewic was called to help neurodiverse students on campus.